From Civil War-era haunts to tragic love stories and untimely deaths, the 13 Alabama ghosts represent a variety of spectral phenomena that continue to fascinate locals and visitors alike.

The Ghosts of Civil War Battlefields

Many of Alabama’s ghost stories trace back to the Civil War, where the bloodshed and loss left behind restless spirits. Places like Shiloh National Military Park, though technically in Tennessee, border Alabama and are often included in regional ghost lore. 13 alabama ghosts and jeffrey kathryn tucker windham: She Kathryn Tucker Windham, 2012-08-01 This slender book, the last of twenty-nine written by Kathryn Tucker Windham over her long and productive life, will be an exquisitely bittersweet read for the many fans of the late storyteller and author from Selma, Alabama. In She, which Windham was putting the finishing touches on when she died in June 2011, the author describes how she woke up one day to find that she had an unwanted houseguest, an old woman who had suddenly moved into her home and was taking over her life. Windham referred to this interloper simply as She, and here the reader has been invited into the lively colloquy between the author -- whose spirit has not changed -- and her alter ego, who moves haltingly toward her earthly end. She will leave you laughing and crying, but also grateful and hopeful.

13 alabama ghosts and jeffrey kathryn tucker windham: Alabama, One Big Front Porch Kathryn Tucker Windham, 2007-01-01 Many of Alabama's finest stories used to begin with a reference to 'the night the stars fell,' and even now there is an inclination among some residents to divide local history into two segments: before the stars fell and after the stars fell. That would make November 13, 1833, the dividing line. Thousands of Alabamians, thinking the end of the world was at hand when they saw the heavenly spectacle, fell to their knees to plead for mercy and forgiveness. Others promised eternal renunciation of sin (card playing, dancing, whiskey drinking, cursing, and associated vices) if they were spared whatever catastrophes were in the offing. Still others jumped upon horses and tried to outrace the fearful menace they believed was pursuing them.

13 alabama ghosts and jeffrey kathryn tucker windham: Lost Towns of Central Alabama
Peggy Jackson Walls, 2021-07-19 Settlers came to Central Alabama in the early 1800s with big dreams. Miners panned the streams and combed the hillsides of the state's Gold Belt, hoping to strike it rich. Arbacooche and Goldville were forged by the rush on land and gold, along with Cahaba, the first state capital. Demand for the abundant cotton led to the establishment of factories like Pepperell Mills, Russell Manufacturing Company, Tallassee Mills, Avondale Mills and Daniel Pratt Cotton Gin. Owners built mill villages for their workers, setting the standard for other companies as well. But when booms go bust, they leave ghost towns in their wake. Author Peggy Jackson Walls walks the empty streets of these once lively towns, reviving the stories of the people who built and abandoned them.
